

Clinical Supervisor £60 per hour – Hybrid working/ Sessional role

Rape Crisis South London (RASASC) is recruiting flexible, creative, integrative and empathic clinical supervisors to support therapists working with girls and young women aged between 5 – 24 who have experienced sexual violence.

We are looking for clinical supervisors with a PTA and/or UKCP accreditation and experience in supervising groups of therapists who work with children and young people. Successful candidates will have a good knowledge of the full range of impacts of sexual violence, as well as of vicarious trauma and burnout in helping professions. They will be able to effectively manage group dynamics and the boundaries of supervision. The role will entail up to 10hrs per month on a booked and regular basis.

The CYP team are a friendly group of eclectic women that represent the diverse cultures and ethnicities across the boroughs served. Every member of the team has accessed Rape Crisis South London's invaluable training on understanding and working with trauma focussed therapy for survivors of sexual violence and CSA. Just like our ethos says, we stand in solidarity, hope and empathy with each other as we strive to support every woman and girl (WAG) on their journey to recovery. We do this through play and creative therapies and talking therapies which are delivered face to face or online within their school setting or at our Croydon site or a hub. We look forward to hearing from you and welcoming successful candidates to the team.

We will provide successful candidates with:

- An hourly rate of £60ph
- Regular CPD and developmental opportunities

The post is open to female applicants only as the role is deemed to be a genuine occupational requirement under Schedule 9, Paragraph 1 of the Equality Act 2010.

RASASC is an equal opportunities employer, and we are particularly keen to receive applications from women underrepresented in the violence against women and girls movement.

To apply please download and complete the below application form and equal opportunities form and return them to recruitment@rasasc.org.uk. Please put 'CYP Clinical Supervisor' as the subject of the email.
